The Kean University Library provides a wealth of electronic resource collections. Many e-resources are directly accessible from the Library’s home page at http://library.kean.edu. The Library’s e-resources include the following:

E-Books

Electronic books are electronic versions of printed books. Many of the Library’s e-books are available through the Kean Catalog as well as the individual e-book databases.

E-Government Documents

Currently there are over 145,000 U.S. government documents available through the Kean Catalog. Examples include the CIA World Factbook; Elementary and Secondary Education Act; and the Natural Resources Reporter. The number of U.S. government documents available will continue to grow monthly as we add more records to our catalog.

E-Journals

The Library subscribes to over 55,000 e-journals. These e-journals can be directly accessed from the Library’s Periodicals List.

Databases

The Library currently has over 200 databases that are organized alphabetically and also by subject and format. Examples are Oxford Reference, JSTOR, MarketLine Advantage, and ScienceDirect, as well as the EBSCOhost and ProQuest research databases.

Multimedia Resources

These databases include streaming audio and educational video content for academic research. Examples include Films on Demand, ICE Learning Center, Naxos Music Library, Stash, and Counseling and Therapy in Video.

Bibliographic Citation Managers

EasyBib and EndNote Online are Web-based tools for managing your citations and creating bibliographies in an array of citation styles including: APA, MLA, Chicago, and numerous others.

Research Guides

These subject-focused research guides offer a quick and easy way for students and faculty to explore the Library materials (including books, e-books, and databases) available on a broad range of topics, ranging from Accounting to Women’s Studies. The research guides also provide recommendations for relevant Web sites and resources for appropriate citation styles.

Note: Brief directions are provided on the back.
Electronic Resources (E-Resources)
@ Your Library
Kean University Library

E-Books*

- Go to the Library’s home page (http://library.kean.edu).
- Click Books, E-books, Videos, & More (Kean Catalog).
- From the Limit Your Search drop-down menu, select Electronic Resource.
- Type your key words in the search box underneath Find This:
- Click Search.
- Click an e-book title.
- Scroll down, then click the hyperlink next to the words Linked Resources.

E-Government Documents

- Go to the Library’s home page (http://library.kean.edu).
- Click Books, E-books, Videos, & More (Kean Catalog).
- From the Limit Your Search drop-down menu, select U.S. Government Online Document.
- Type your key words in the search box underneath Find This:
- Click Search.
- Click an e-government document title you wish to view.
- Scroll down, then click the hyperlink next to the words Linked Resources.

E-Journals*

- Go to the Library’s home page (http://library.kean.edu).
- Click Periodicals List (Journals, Magazines, Newspapers).
- Click the red Periodicals List link.
- Type your journal, magazine, or newspaper title in the Search box.
- Click Search.
- If the periodical title appears in the results list with a Full Text Access link, this means that full-text online articles are available for the date range indicated through the database(s) listed immediately below the title.
- Click the database listed immediately below the title.

Databases*

- Go to the Library’s home page (http://library.kean.edu).
- Click Articles & More (Databases, Full-text, E-journals).
- Use the alphabetical menu if you know the database name or browse by Subjects, Database Types, or Vendors/Providers.
- Click the database you wish to search.

*Some resources may require you to log-in with your Kean Google e-mail username and password.