 - c. Teaching Innovation
3. Scholarly abilities – as demonstrated by such things as research in the academic field, contribution to artistic creation, publication, etc.
 - a. Publications, Performances, Exhibitions
 - b. Current Professional and Academic Association Memberships
4. Effectiveness in University and community service -- as demonstrated by such things as participation in University governance, improvement of Departmental, college, and University programs, service to students, service to the University community and to related professional organizations, etc.
 - a. Past and Current Non-Teaching Responsibilities

Differentiation of Reappointment, Tenure and Promotion Expectations for Tenure-Track CLINICAL Faculty

Tenure-track Clinical Faculty (Clinical Assistant, Clinical Associate, and Clinical Full Professors) are hired to teach traditional courses, but also to fulfill essential out-of-class assignments, whether required by prudence, licensure, or accreditation, such as oversight of students and/or faculty and staff in a clinical setting, visits to off-campus instructional sites, maintaining relationships with academic partner institutions, or similar activities. Because these responsibilities require a substantial commitment of time beyond the work typically assigned to a regular tenure-track faculty member, Clinical Faculty are not expected to produce the same volume and/or type of scholarship en route to reappointment, tenure and promotion. Clinical scholarship is the integration of theoretical and experiential knowledge encompassing the knowledge and learnings derived from the analytical observation of clients and patients, involving the intellectual activity of thinking, analysis and synthesis, and hypothesis generation and testing, resulting in dissemination of the knowledge generated. If the Clinical Faculty member produces scholarly research published in peer-reviewed academic venues, they would be expected to produce thirty five percent to fifty percent (35%-50%) of the work expected of a regularly appointed tenure-track faculty member during the same period of time. Alternatively, they could produce a volume of work that would match the expectations of regularly appointed tenure-track faculty members, but instead of publishing in scholarly journals, the work could be publications in a professional journal, research reports for government agencies or health care organizations, or engage in other ways in more applied community or professional projects.

FIRST YEAR REAPPOINTMENT DEADLINES/PROCESS

The reappointment calendar is posted on the Faculty Forms website each year. Please note that deadlines are typically similar year-to-year. The steps for review are detailed below:

FACULTY OBSERVATIONS

At least two (2) teaching observations, including one from the Departmental ARTP Committee Chairperson, are required. These evaluations shall not occur before the fifth (5th) week of the semester. Each observation must be discussed with the Candidate, who has the right to respond in writing for inclusion in the reappointment file. If more than two observations are made, these also must be included with the file. Only tenured faculty at or above the candidate’s rank are eligible to complete the peer observations.

Each evaluation must:

1. Be signed by the faculty member making the observation
2. Indicate the date of the observation

Note:

1. In order to satisfy the requirements of due process, the class meeting chosen for evaluation should be one in which teaching competence may be fully demonstrated. Thus, examination sessions, class presentations by students, individual private instruction and similar situations are excluded.
2. Fairness to the Candidate would suggest that the observer be present from the very beginning of the class session so that important information and directions given to the students are not missed.
3. To be helpful to the Candidate as well as to the ARTP Committee, the evaluation should be directed to considerations such as the following:
 - The Candidate's knowledge of the content area of the course:
 - the precision and accuracy of information given to the students
 - evidence of the Candidate's scholarship observed in the class
 - apparent value of the readings and assignments given to the students
 - The Candidate's ability to communicate and facilitate learning:
 - organization of the class presentation
 - clarity and relative importance of the objectives of the presentation
 - ability to motivate and guide students in deepening their knowledge
 - openness and facility in responding to questions

*Important note: In preparation for the next reappointment cycle, candidates should plan to have two (2) new peer observations completed during the Spring (and/or Summer, as appropriate) so that they can be included in the 2nd year packet (typically submitted by the beginning of September for 2nd-6th year faculty).

STUDENT EVALUATIONS

Student evaluations for all courses are conducted online (via Anthology/Campus Labs) and are not available until the end of the semester, after the submission deadline for First year reappointment materials. As such, they are not included in first year materials. In future reappointment cycles (2nd-6th Years), student evaluations for all courses taught should be uploaded to the Teaching Activity section under the Faculty Activity Reporting (FAR) module in Interfolio. Faculty must upload the student evaluations themselves as Interfolio does not pull them in automatically. Instructions for adding student evaluations are included in the guidance documents for 2nd-6th year reappointments.
