NOTE:

- As of Fall 2014, students need a 2.5 GPA to declare Psychology as a major and to take PSY 4200, PSY 4230 and PSY 4940

When picking courses:

- Pay attention to guide sheet details that describe distribution of courses.
  - For example, General Education, Academic Major, and Free Elective requirements.
  - Note that 3 additional Psychology courses (9 s.h. credits) can be selected for Free Electives but the remaining should be selected from among a range of disciplines.

When picking courses:

- PSY 3200 (Psychological Statistics) has to be taken before PSY 4200 (Tests and Measurements) or PSY 4230 (Experimental Psychology)
- PSY 4940 (Seminar: Contemporary Issues in Psychology) is a "capstone" course and should be taken either with or after PSY 4230. You must obtain a petition from your adviser to register for PSY 4940
- PSY 4950 (Field Experience) is for seniors. You must first speak with Dr. O'Desky to register for this course.
- PSY 4970 (Independent Research) requires the student to develop a project before seeking a resident faculty member to support and work with the student.
- Registrations are usually forfeited if tuition is not paid by the appointed date

Honors Test and Measurements and Experimental

- PSY 4205 Honors Psychological Tests and Measurements (3)
  - Can be substituted for PSY 4200. Credit may not be received for both PSY 4200 and PSY 4205.
  - Prerequisites: PSY 1000, PSY 3200,
  - 3.5 GPA and permission of instructor.

- PSY 4235 Honors Experimental Psychology (4)
  - Can be substituted for PSY 4235. Credit may not be received for both PSY 4230 and PSY 4235.
  - Prerequisites: PSY 1000, PSY 3200
  - 3.5 GPA in Psychology, interview, and permission of instructor

Honors Senior Seminar

- PSY 4945 Honors Experimental Psychology (4)
  - Can be substituted for PSY 4945. Credit may not be received for both PSY 4940 and PSY 4945.
  - Prerequisites: PSY 1000, PSY 3200 and PSY 4235
  - 3.5 GPA in Psychology and permission of instructor

Closed Sections:

- The overload policy of the School of Psychology is that an overload is only considered if ALL of the following apply:

1. The student is graduating at the end of the upcoming semester (e.g., May 2017)
2. The student needs that particular course to graduate
3. All the other sections of that particular course are closed

Degree Audits/Evaluations

- Are increasingly useful
- But not wrinkle-free
- So use them IN CONJUNCTION with your GUIDESHEETS and your Academic Advisor
- If you find discrepancies, take the initiative and responsibility to find out why. First speak with your Psychology major adviser.

Record Keeping

- Keep your guide sheet, degree audits/evaluations, and transfer equivalency documents in a folder.
- BRING THAT FOLDER WHEN YOU MEET WITH YOUR ADVISOR.
- This becomes increasingly important as you near graduation.

In order to graduate:

- You must have your guide sheet reviewed and signed by one of the following:
  - Dr. Avioli (EC-234B)
  - Prof. Mastrobuono (EC-234A)

- Please make an appointment with one of them and bring ALL your materials.
- Before your appointment, your graduation papers should be appropriately completed.
- For directions on completing your graduation papers see display in glass case outside the School of Psychology office (EC-234) or online at the following link: http://http://www.kean.edu/psych/doc/PROGRAM%20GUIDE%20SHEET%202011%20EXAMPLE.pdf.

Psychiatric Rehabilitation Majors:

- Seek advisement from Dr. Boyd-Jackson in EC- 226E. She can offer advisement and information you need about required courses and fieldwork.
- All PSRT classes meet at Rutgers' Scotch Plains campus and have a slightly higher tuition rate.
- Please consult KeanWise for Dr. Boyd-Jackson's office hours.
- All students can take PSRT 1101 as major elective but are not required to do so.

Advisement from Dr. Avioli

- Students interested in applying to graduate school to become an Occupational Therapist, Physical Therapist or Physician Assistant should see Dr. Avioli for advisement.

If you need further advising:

- Consult KeanWise for advisor and advisor's office hours (log in as student, click on "grades;" that screen shows advisor's name)

- Come for your advising appointment with ALL relevant materials including guidesheets, degree audits/evaluations, transfer equivalency documents, etc.

To conclude . . .

- If you have any questions, please see your advisor.
- If you have more than one major, you will also need to have your advising block removed by that academic department/school advisor.
- And remember that much of this information is available at http://www.kean.edu/psych
