Students desiring pre-professional preparation for successful entrance into a graduate program in speech-language pathology or audiology can prepare for this goal by enrolling in the Speech-Language-Hearing Sciences Program.

Requirements for Admission:

Students are considered “intended” majors until they have met all requirements for declaring the major which include:

GPA: A cumulative grade-point average of 3.0 or better from Kean and all transfer institutions is required.

Course Credits: At least 45 credits must be completed before becoming eligible to declare Speech-Language-Hearing Sciences as the major.

Course Requirements: All students must complete the following five courses with a B- or better before becoming eligible to declare: CDD 2250, CDD 2253, CDD 2254, CDD 2256, and CDD 2260.

Requirements for Retention:

Resident and transfer students are required to meet all admission requirements before declaring Speech-Language-Hearing Sciences as their major. Once declared, students may begin taking the 3000-4000 level CDD courses. A grade of B- or better is required in all CDD courses and an overall GPA of 3.0 must be maintained. Students not adhering to these standards will be advised to choose an alternative educational path.
