Guest Speaker:
Dr. Dottie Willis

Dr. Dottie Willis is an Associate Professor at Bellarmine University, Louisville, Kentucky. Kentucky is the only state to mandate instruction of the co-teaching method in all of its teacher preparation programs. Dr. Willis enjoys the challenge of preparing the next generation of teachers for success in diverse urban classrooms. She is a recipient of the university’s Merit Award and the School of Education’s Award for Excellence in Teaching.

As former Writing Specialist of the Jefferson County (KY) Public Schools, Dr. Willis authored and piloted National Public Radio’s This I Believe High School Writing Curriculum; she continues to serve on the national board of directors for NPR’s This I Believe.

In addition to her current research in the areas of literacy and co-teaching, Dr. Dottie Willis has trained over 500 classroom teachers in Co-Teaching Methodology and delivered presentations on Co-Teaching Implementation at both the 2014 American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education Conference (AACTE) and the 2015 Association of Independent Liberal Arts

Objectives:
During this workshop participants will:

• Network with colleagues from other school districts and universities to share perspectives and successful practices in a collegial and collaborative setting
• Learn about the positive connections between teacher evaluation models and co-teaching with interns
• Observe the six basic co-teaching models in action
• Discuss the interconnected roles of the intern, supervisor, cooperating teacher and administrator in a co-teaching setting
• Broaden your skill set by learning from the experiences of cooperating teachers who are currently practicing the co-teaching model
• Gain strategies for coaching and co-planning with interns

This workshop includes a continental breakfast and lunch.
